REGARDING THE OLYMPIC GAMES

Sometimes getting an agreement is more of a marathon than a sprint. The SCRC has obtained a settlement of all grievances related to travel reimbursements for technicians assigned to the Olympic Games in Sochi (2014), Rio (2016) and Pyeongchang (2018). Employees who have submitted information to the union - whether at the time the grievances were filed or during our probe this summer - will receive a fixed compensation for each Olympic Games presence, within approximately 60 days. There is something to celebrate this agreement – perhaps a medal for patience! The SCRC hopes to be able to settle more grievances in a way that benefits its workers.

To invent a union for us all

How about a strong union, one that is united, unified and rallied around common issues? What would you say to a strong organization that listens to and supports its members, an organization that has our employer's respect, who defends the common good of Radio-Canada? What would you say to a union invested in its community and in public debate? The SCRC is moving towards these goals, and elected delegates are putting their shoulder to the wheel - but we also need our members to do the same. Has the SCRC made mistakes in the past? Certainly - we may make a few more in the future. Is your union looking to renew itself today? Of course ! Already, the executive board is fully engaged in a process, supervised by the FNC (Fédération nationale des communications), to create strong ties between elected representatives and become more efficient for our members.

COME MEET YOUR UNION

After the virtual chat, why not a meeting face to face? To facilitate direct exchanges between members and elected officials, we invite Montreal union members to join us in the Télécino room, Monday, October 7th, between noon and 1 pm, whether to ask questions, discuss issues or just good 'ol small talk. Come and see us!

DISTRIBUTION OF THE COLLECTIVE AGREEMENT IN ENGLISH

Speaking of patience: our CBC colleagues needed a good dose of it while they waited for a printed version. Members of the executive board will distribute them on Monday, October 7th in Montreal, and we will be able to send copies to those who request one.
